The ACH Authorization Form gives the CU permission to withdraw money from your account at another financial institution or to send funds to your account at another financial institution. For example, the CU can withdraw funds from your Wells Fargo account and send funds to your Wells Fargo account.

An ACH Authorization Form is required in the following circumstances:

1. If you are sending your documents to the CU by electronically uploading your documents or by fax, you must fill out the ACH form to authorize the CU to withdraw the funds for your initial deposit.
2. If you are paying any Volunteer Fees and you want the CU to deduct this amount monthly from your account at another financial institution.

3. If you want the CU to send your CU funds to your account at another financial institution via ACH.

Your ACH Authorization can be terminated whenever you decide, as described in the form.

Below is a link to the PDF version of the ACH Authorization Form.
